RE• is a company that is passionate about going green while making it look good.

We are a small, private-owned second hand store located in the Stanford Shopping Center in Palo Alto. Our shop contains curated pieces of clothing, jewelry, homeware, plants, trinkets, and art - there's a little something for everyone.

Our story began with our creator, Lindsey Wong, who wanted to revitalize thrifting. She created the store after graduating college, with a passion for being environmentally friendly and a love for buying second hand.

RE:'s clothes aim to make your wardrobe look effortlessly stylish and trendy, without trying too hard. The clothes are curated more towards the 2000's or streetwear style, but with a sophisticated flair.

RE: caters to everyone - teenagers, adults, and all genders. We hope to make our space a safe place for all, as well as help people experience a new way to shop.

RE: offers

- * high quality, stylish curated pieces of clothing
- * jewelry
- * homeware
- * plants
- * art
- * recyclable bags & compostable tags
- * a safe place for all
